

American Land Title Association Elects Jack Rattikin III as President

Washington, D.C., Oct. 14, 2022 — The American Land Title Association (ALTA), the national trade association of the land title insurance industry, announced that Jack Rattikin III has been installed as president for the 2022-2023 year. Rattikin is a third generation ALTA president, following his father's presidency in 1984-1985 and his grandfather's presidency in 1939-1940.

"I am humbled to follow in both my father's and grandfather's footsteps in taking on the role of ALTA president," said Rattikin, president and CEO of Rattikin Title Company in Fort Worth, Texas. "As a young man, I knew it was an important position. However, during my time on the ALTA Board of Governors, I've realized exactly how much of my father's and grandfather's heart and soul went into their time as president. The ALTA presidency gives me the opportunity to collaborate with more than 6,500 of ALTA member companies and thousands of my title insurance industry colleagues and peers who are dedicated to helping their communities grow. I am honored to represent the profession that generations of my family have given their lives to, and I look forward to accomplishing great things with the Board of Governors, staff and membership in the year ahead."

ALTA's 2022-2023 strategic priorities include helping members:

- Optimize their businesses in a changing market
- Leverage modern payment systems, including digital funds transfers and currencies
- Promote homeownership opportunities
- Navigate the regulatory environment

"In the coming year, ALTA will enhance relationships with state and federal regulatory agencies and policymakers to better advocate for public policies on multiple issues, such as expanding homeownership affordability and protecting against predatory practices undermining homeownership opportunities," Rattikin said. "We also will provide education and training to help our members plan for a changing economic environment and promote resources to help them run their businesses efficiently."

"Jack is one of our most valuable leaders in the title insurance industry and at ALTA," said ALTA CEO Diane Tomb. "His knowledge gained from more than 30 years as a title professional and his time as a board member for both ALTA and the Texas Land Title Association—not to mention he literally grew up talking about title insurance at the dinner table—have positioned him perfectly for the ALTA presidency. His decades of hands-on experience will help him lead ALTA members through a changing economic landscape. Additionally, his ability to cultivate relationships across vertical and horizontal markets will be especially important as ALTA works to enhance connections with state and federal regulatory agencies and policymakers."
